What the service covers

Ad creation	You send the flyer or specs for each property. We write the listing — headline, specifications, terms, and a reply instruction that qualifies inbound inquiries. We then send you a preview of each listing for approval; nothing goes live until you have signed it off.
Posting	Placed into Craigslist's Office & Commercial category in the Southern California markets relevant to each property. We hold the accounts and pay Craigslist's fees. Nobody on your side touches Craigslist.
Reposting	A Craigslist post expires 30 days after it goes up. We repost ahead of that, so a property always has a live listing. How much more often than that we repost is a separate question — one of visibility rather than expiry — and it is set per market from the turnover we measure there.
Management	A direct line to our team for mid-cycle changes — a rate adjustment, a suite leasing up, a property coming off the market. One business day guaranteed, usually same day.
Reporting	After every cycle, an email listing each live post with a direct link, plus a status page that stays current. Optional per-market tracking links show which submarkets produce inquiries on which property.
Replacement	If a listing is removed inside seven days, we repost it at no charge.

Posting frequency

Craigslist listings expire after 30 days, but visibility fades long before that. Page one of a category holds 120 results, and every new listing pushes the older ones down.

How quickly that happens is entirely a function of the market. In a dense metro a commercial listing can be off page one inside a day. In a quieter one the same listing holds the front page for weeks. One cadence applied across both overspends in the second and leaves you invisible in the first.

So we measure it rather than guess. Before setting a schedule we check the live turnover in each market your properties sit in — how many new listings go up per day, and how long that leaves a post on page one — and size the frequency to match. Each property gets the cadence its own market needs, and we revisit it once there is a month of your results to work from.

Cost

Volume rates

Craigslist's fee is fixed at $5 per post and passed through at cost, never marked up and never discounted. Our service fee falls as monthly volume rises, counted across all your properties together.

POSTS PER MONTH	CRAIGSLIST	SERVICE	TOTAL PER POST
1 – 9	$5	$15	$20
10 or more	$5	$14	$19
25 or more	$5	$13	$18
50 or more	$5	$12	$17
100 or more	$5	$11	$16

Three ways to start

Every figure below is the total for all three properties, not per property. Pick by budget — we allocate the posts across markets to buy the most visibility per dollar.

ESSENTIAL

6 posts per property — enough to hold page one in a steady market

18 posts per month, all three properties

$342 /mo

RECOMMENDED

12 per property — continuous in its main market, plus a second

36 posts per month, all three properties

$648 /mo

MAXIMUM

28 per property — continuous page one in Los Angeles

84 posts per month, all three properties

$1,428 /mo

What that includes

Craigslist's posting fee is included in every figure above, along with writing the ads, scheduling them and reporting. No setup fee, no retainer, no minimum, no cancellation fee. Every post is billed, scheduled reposts included; the one exception is a listing removed within seven days, which we replace free.

You buy posts and pay for them before they run. Change the volume whenever you like, or stop.
